The gastrointestinal system is part of the central nervous system and the two are connected by the vagus nerve. The vagus nerve is a major afferent pathway conveying sensations from the gut to the brain. In the absence of a fully functioning nervous system, the gastrointestinal system provides the evolutionary substrate for the formation of the nervous system. It is now evident that many neurotransmitters, including neuropeptides and peptide-metabolizing enzymes, are conserved throughout evolution and are, in some cases, expressed in comparable distributions in the central and peripheral nervous systems. In this review, we focus on the gastrointestinal nervous system and specifically on the structure, function, and phylogenetic distribution of peptidergic neurotransmitters.Q: Any T4 Template for ASP.NET custom validation? I want to write my own T4 template to generate some HTML. What I want to do is to put some custom validation in the generated code. It seems that T4 templates are not supposed to do this. Is there a way to do this? Or should I use a third-party framework or similar? A: You could use some reflection to do that. A T4 template would make that pretty trivial though. I have a working example: Here The German Army's Long-Lost Panzerbefehlswagen - peter_d_sherman b7e8fd5c8
